

What is another name for plants that produce seeds and have flowers?

What is another name for plants that produce seeds and DO NOT have flowers?

What is the name of the a pore found in the leaf and stem of plants that is used for gas exchange

What is the name of the waterproof coating covering a leaf?

What are the main functions of a leaf?

What are the main functions of a Stem?

What are the main functions of Roots?

Which type of root is a single large root with a few smaller, branching roots.

Which type of root has many small roots branching off in differer directions.

What are the names of the two types of vascular systems in plants?

Gymnosperm

Angiosperm

Cuticle

Stoma

Supports leaves and flowers and carries water, minerals, and food up and down between the plant's leaves and roots.

Stores chlorophyll and collects light. It is the site of photosynthesis.

Taproot

Anchors plant to the earth and absorbs water and minerals needed for growth.

Xylem
and Phloem

Fibrous roots